- 1C) The Samsung group is a large Korean conglomerate that focuses on electronics and financial services. In the past, many Korean companies encountered difficulties because they diversified into unrelated fields. In its new approach to management, Samsung tries to avoid the pitfalls of other companies. At the turn of the century, Samsung initiated a policy designed to make the company a leader in its field, competing against firms such as Sony of Japan. The company is driven by its values and its philosophy. Samsung realizes the importance of its people and the use of latest technologies for achieving success in the marketplace. At the same time, it is aware of the responsibility to contribute to society not only in Korea, but also worldwide. Chairman Lee Kun-Hee laid the groundwork for a new approach to management that considers defects a crime. Quality, superior products and excellent customer service are considered key factors for success in the very competitive environment that has been dominated by Japanese firms. With its "digital management" approach, Samsung attempts to exploit the opportunities created by the information age technologies. Samsung's values, philosophy and policies as well as its goal of becoming a global leader in its field have attracted many Korean students. Samsung will use the talents of these young people, to successfully compete in the global environment. Analyse this case in terms of Porter's Generic strategies. (3)
